62,000,000ppb of perchlorate was found, and the community questioned its' source. The finding was dismissed, and no connection to the SSFL was truly acknowledged by the polluter (who built the road) or the developer or the regulators. Now, we understand this to be the original road to Rocketdyne. This is IMPORTANT new information that could possibly explain the occasional high hits from truck loads of hazardous waste going up and down the hill.
